WILL IT EVER BE THUS?

Marion is again in the predicament of not knowing where they are at about the electric light franchise. The gentlemen who promoted the company organized last fall have quit cold. They are not to be censured particularly for that however. That was their privilege.

But several months have passed and gone since the old franchise expired and there has been absolutely nothing done towards giving Marion what she must have . . . 24 hour electric service.

The lack of this modern necessity, not convenience, should make every citizen hang his head with shame at the thought of it. And the city councilmen should clothe themselves in sackcloth and repent of their slothfulness and inertia.

As an illustration of what LITTLE towns in the state have the writer is only mentioning a few that he really knows of personally, not hearsay, and no doubt many could be added to the list if an investigation were made.

Albany, a little town away up in the hills of Clinton County 75 miles from a railroad and the nearest coal mine six miles away has 24 hour service from their light plant.

Vine Grove, a town of about seven hundred people has had water works for several years and they have an efficient volunteer fire department too.

Smithland . . . You all know Smithland . . . has all day electricity, so has Wheatcroft.

We are not censuring Mr. Jenkins for not furnishing this electricity either. His franchise did not specify this. And in all fairness The Press will say that Marion has the best service at night of any town in the country.

WATCH FOR OUR "FORMAL" OPENING

Little by little The Press office is taking on the appearance of a real printing office. There is lots of work to be done yet but we keep plugging away as we find a little time between looking after our many customers.

The move has caused much confusion of course. But we are sure that from now on there will be fewer complaints as time goes on and we get in better shape to take care of you. Our mailing list has been a source of much annoyance to us and to you but we are now completing the transfer from the old style book system to a modern card system and feel sure that the change will be for the better.

Of course we are not completely fixed up here as yet. The front for the building we occupy is not yet in place and it is pretty hard to get to us, but we hope the building will soon be complete and we will be able to meet you in a regular "front office".

Meantime we will be glad to see you when you come in. If you have any thing to kick about let us hear that too for we can not rectify an error if we know nothing of it.

And watch for our big "opening" when the building is complete, and watch us improve The Press.

PATHE PHONOGRAPHS

KNOWN the world over for their superiority. We have a shipment of both phonographs and records enroute. Do not buy any kind of talking machine till you hear the PATHE.

This is also the home of the BALDWIN LINE OF PIANOS AND PLAYERS. We will gladly show you WHY THEY ARE BETTER.

LATEST HITS in player rolls and records, of course.

TWO SPOTS

The town that thinks the county school needs no playground, is usually the same one where people can't keep their fruit safe from the kids.

The fact that a farmer buys machinery to save horse power, does not always prove that he can put running water into his house to save wife power.

Some people wont improve their lawns, because they have no time to mow them fter they are fixed up, and they wont mow them because they have have never been graded and improved.

Agricultural papers report milk situation serious. Judging from the sounds, it becomes serious about once in every three hours among the neighbors having infant children.

Great interest is being manifested in breeding thoroughbred cattle, but few people pay much attention to developing thoroughbred children.

According to the kid element, why worry about the teacher shortage, when the problem is so quickly settled by closing the schools.

Formerly the farm hands had to be assured merely of good food, but now there has to be a movie show three nights a week at the nearest cross roads center.

The Senators are said to be all nerved up and worn out over the quibbling peace treaty debate, and a lot of them can comfort themselves with the fact that they are going to be granted a long and extended vacation.

The people who want to repeal prohibition still find it rather convenient to have their help turn up Monday morning.

The government is now regulating the packers, another luxury for the public to pay for.

It has not been claimed that woman suffrage will increase the silent vote.

If the League of Nations acquires as much power as the anti saloon league, it will do pretty well.

BLACKBURN

It is claimed that 1920 is the womans age, but we dare any mere man to tell an old maid she is that old.

The fellow who did as he pleased when single generally don't after he gets married.

Character and fame in this day depend too much on how much money you have.

We had rather have a clean record and a clear conscience and be in moderate circumstances than to be a millionaire and afraid to meet God.

We have more respect for the fellow who is too lazy to work than the one who is too proud to work.

The girl with 8 lots of cheek usually uses a lot of paint.

An ounce of help beats a ton of advice.

An old widower always reminds us of a young pup, they try to be frisky but are too awkward.

There are three important things for us to learn to love, God, home, and Native country.

INFANT DIES

Margaret Amanda, the nine month old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Oliver of Francis died March 1 of bronchial pneumonia. The funeral services were conducted by Lily of Fredonia, at the family residence by Rev.

GOOD SHOWING FOR CRITTENDEN

Mr. G. N. Wickwire who is representing the Federal government in the fight against the transfer of diseases from animals to man especially tuberculosis, was in Marion last week to get a live stock survey of Crittenden County. The purpose of this survey is to give the government some idea of the work it is about to begin and the means it will have to take to handle it properly. He gives us the following statistics for this county—pure bred geldings, mares and colts 7; geldings, mares and colts common stock 3757; pure bred stallions 6; common stallions, 16; mules and mule colts 3137; jacks and jennets, 44; registered cattle, 115; other cattle, 10267; sheep and goats, 3110 hogs and pigs, 14787; acres of land, 231676; estimate farmers, 1800; pure blood hogs, due to boys pig club, 600. Mr. George Robe has about 260 pure bred durocs. Mr. Bird has about 30 pure bred durocs.

HON. BOB BACK ON THE JOB

Bob Wilborn, Hon. R. E. Wilborn if you please, is again at his former post of duty as superintendent of the mechanical department of The Press office. Bob has now served one term as the representative from this district—and served it well—but his closest friends think that Crittenden county looks better to Bob than Frankfurt as a steady diet.

However this is not to be taken as a statement that Bob has obtained a divorce from politics. He's liable to run for Congress—but Bob can serve his constituents mighty well by taking care of their printing needs—and there's not a better one in the business. et Bob do it for you—if you don't we both lose.

BIDS FAIR TO RIVAL "FLU"

An epidemic of fever is headed towards Marion that is a hard one to shake off when once contracted. This fever will cause men to close their stores about 2:30 on a bright sunny afternoon, women to leave their sewing and social duties, farmers to quit plowing their corn at that time of the day—and sometimes a county official has been known to succumb. This malady has been dubbed the "baseball fever" and is contracted by men, women and children in all walks of life. The people of the country surrounding Marion are going to be "exposed" to some of the most virulent cases this summer.

The Marion Reds are going to play the fastest semi pro and amateur teams in the business. Players are even now working out every afternoon at the park and if you want to gradually contract the fever before the season opens come down some of these pretty afternoons and look over the talent under contract to play this summer.

QUIET WEDDING

Mr. Kelsey Travis and Miss Eve Monday evening at the home of Rev. W. T. Oakley.

Mr. Travis is a son of the late Jim Travis and Miss Barnes is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Barnes. Both are of this place.

DEMOCRATS TO MEET

The democratic state central committee has called a county mass meeting at 2 o'clock, p. m. on the first Saturday in May for the purpose of selecting county delegates to attend the state convention to be held in Louisville on May 4 at 2 o'clock.

The state convention will select delegates for the national convention to be held in San Francisco on June 28. Each county is entitled to one delegate for each one hundred votes or fraction thereof cast for democratic electors in the election of 1916. On this basis Crittenden is entitled to 15 delegates in the state convention.

HORSE BITTEN

We have often heard of people who were dog bitten or snake bitten or frost bitten, but horse bitten is rather an unfamiliar term, but that is really what happened to one of our inhabitants last week.

Mr. Allie McNeely was carelessly strutting up Bellville street, surveying the people when his coat brushed the nose of an old gray mare. The animal became very indignant at this procedure, set her ears at a forty-five degree angle and raising her head politely set her teeth well into Allie's ribs.

OBITUARY

Mary Wilson Threlkeld was born September, 13, 1825. She was married to J. W. Hill December 9 1845, to this union was born four children, three sons and one daughter. Mrs. Hill had been a widow for almost forty eight years. She was a devoted wife and a good mother. Her sons come to honor, they are ruling elders in their home church at Chapel Hill. Three of her grand sons are Deacons in the same church. She professed Faith in Christ at the age of fifteen and was a faithful member of the Church during all of her active life of ninety four years, three months and fourteen days. God took her home away from the toils and cares of this world to the rest prepared for the people of God. May the blessing of the dear Lord abide with her children relatives and many friends.

FORMER MARION BOY WEDS

The following was clipped from a Rockland, Maryland, paper:

"Rev. O. C. Barnes, pastor of the Christian church, officiated at the marriage here yesterday afternoon of Miss Iris G. Ixon of Washington and Frederick H. Moore of Quantico Va., the home of the minister being the scene of the ceremony. They were accompanied by two friends."

Mr. Moore is a Marion boy, being born and reared here. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joel Moore of East Depot street and has many friends here.

FREE SEEDS FROM YOUR CONGRESSMAN

The annual distribution of free vegetable and flower seeds by the United States Government has begun and you can get your allotment by applying either at this office or at the office of County Clerk L. E. Guess. First come first served as long as they last.

Learner says he hopes some day to be able to distribute seeds that will grow well in a republican county but somehow luck has been "agin" him in the first district.

At the monthly meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society, M. E. church, South, the following resolutions were adopted:

It is with sad and loving hearts that we pay a last tribute to the memory of Mrs. W. N. Rochester, so long our faithful secretary.

That we feel the very great loss the Society has sustained in the death of this devoted, earnest, Christian woman.

That this Society has lost in her a spirit so consistently devoted to its professed efforts that her place may not be filled.

That our sincere love and sympathy be extended to her family in their hour of sore bereavement.

That we place upon the tablets of our hearts the memory of her unquestionable loyalty and sincere devotion to her home, society and church.

That a copy of these resolutions be presented to the family and one to be sent to the Crittenden Press for publication; also that a page of the Minute Book of our Ladies' Missionary Society be dedicated to her memory.

FEDERAL SURVEY BEGUN

About forty federal surveyors arrived at Marion last Friday to continue the survey of the Ohio River Road from Louisville to Paducah. They had finished the survey to the Crittenden county line at Sturgis before coming to Marion, and intend to complete it to Smithland before they leave Marion, which will probably be about six weeks. The roads would not permit them to drive through so they had their six trucks loaded on flats and shipped to Marion. They are for the time camping at the old tobacco factory.

REVIVAL IN PROGRESS

The united evangelistic campaign between the Main Street Presbyterian Church and the Methodist is now in progress. Dr. Flanagan of Madisonville is preaching at 3 and 7.30 p. m. each day this week at the Presbyterian church and Rev. McAffee of Marion will be the preacher next week at the Methodist church. Good crowds are in attendance, and great interest is being manifest in these services. An urgent invitation is extended by both churches to all the people to attend. Rev. McAffee was formerly pastor of the church here.

The increase asked ranges from 25 to 50 per cent. from foremen to press feeders. Three large job plants closed down and others may be affected.

Whitesburg.—An L. & N. passenger train bound for Louisville ran into a slip in the south end of a tunnel near Whitesburg, and a wreck was narrowly averted. Windows were smashed and steps broken. The engine was also thrown off the track. A near panic was created by passengers on the train. Traffic was delayed for several hours.

Columbia.—Mrs. Susan Wilson, probably the largest woman in this section of Kentucky, died in the Milltown section of Adair county. Her weight is said to have been 500 pounds. No coffin could be found in Columbia large enough to receive her body, so a local undertaker was employed to make one, which is said to have been as large as a spring-wagon bed.

Frankfort.—A home for a mother, deserted during the war, and compelled to work in a local factory to support her two children, represents one phase of the activity of the local Red Cross Chapter. A cash payment of $1,002 is from delayed family allotment and allowance from October, 1918, when the runaway husband was drafted into the service.

La Grange.—The large farm of Newton Burton, deceased, was sold to settle the estate, he leaving three children, Albert and Robert Burton and Mrs. Charles Lamaster. The farm contained over 400 acres and was bid in by two sons at $75 per acre. It has two houses on it, the sons having lived there for some years. It is a good farm and well watered, with much creek bottom land.

Frankfort.—A. W. Overton, 75 years old, for many years teller at Farmers' Deposit Bank, died as result of burns caused by his clothing catching fire from a gas stove in his bedroom. Mr. Overton, when 16 years old, was one of the students at the Virginia Military Institute who joined the Confederate forces in the battle at New Market. He distinguished himself in the war and was awarded a medal.

Louisville.—George A. Francke, formerly of Louisville, who died on an army transport returning to the United States March 1, 1919, under the name of Ralph K. Warrington, left an estate between $3,000 and $10,000, it became known when his sister, Mrs. Blanche Shelby, was appointed administrator. A brother, Louis H. Francke, also shares in the estate. It is known Francke had holdings in the Philippines.

Paducah.—Curtilage of the 1920 tobacco crop was favored in resolutions adopted at a meeting of planters of the dark tobacco district here. The purpose of the farmers' meeting was the discussion of the present market situation. Between forty and fifty delegates from five counties of the district were present. Delegates were present from McCracken, Marshall, Graves, Ballard and Carlisle counties.

Flemingsburg.—The preliminary examination of Richard Stanfield for the fatal shooting of William Stiekrod, was held before Judge Fulton, who fixed his bond at $1,000, which he gave and was released. Mr. Stanfield is 78 years of age and a tenant on the Stiekrod farm. Stanfield and Mr. Stiekrod got into a dispute which resulted in the latter being killed. Mr. Stanfield stated that he did not intend to injure him.

Lexington.—Suffering from concussion of the brain, John Chapman, a farmer, living on Tate's Creek pike, ten miles from Lexington, was brought to the hospital here in a serious condition. He was struck on the head by a falling tree, which was chopping down, and lay unconscious for several hours before found.

Hopkinsville.—John Russell, prominent young farmer of the eastern part of this county, was found guilty of manslaughter in circuit court here, and was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary. Russell shot and killed Fletcher Cowan last July.

Mt. Sterling.—The Burley tobacco market here is closed. The sales this season have not been satisfactory. Approximately 7,000,000 pounds have been sold at the three warehouses, averaging $31 per hundred.

Louisville.—The Baptists hope to begin work this spring on the hospital they will erect on the site on Barret avenue they bought some time ago. It is estimated that the cost of the first building will be $300,000 or more.

Lexington.—A meeting of the State Racing Commission will likely be called within the next ten days or two weeks to decide on dates for the spring meetings. It was stated by Secretary Pete Stoll. The definite date for calling the meeting has not yet been decided upon, as two of the members are out of the city.

Frankfort.—The sale of 116,650 acres of Clark county land for $146.07 in taxes was recalled by an extract from old records made by the Franklin County Clerk for current litigation. The sale was made December 6, 1815, to John Wilson, of Pennsylvania, on the failure of Thomas Franklin to pay his taxes. The tract begins at the intersection of the North and Middle forks of the Kentucky river.

Louisville.—Roundup and prosecution of Kentucky's 1,374 deserters and 2,469 delinquents in the draft during the war will be undertaken jointly by the War Department and Kentucky legationaires, if the War Department accepts the offer of the legion's State Executive Committee, which tendered its services for this work. Names will be made public in a few days through newspapers and the roundup will follow.

La Grange.—The Board of Tax Supervisors, composed of R. L. Ireland, James Fox, Ed Mason, J. S. Clifton, J. W. Swinney, T. T. Anderson, L. O. All property holders whose taxes will be raised will be given a chance to appear before the board and say why the raise should not be.

Louisville.—"Old Man Harris," oil stock promoter, was found guilty in Federal Court of using the mails to defraud. Conviction came after the jury had been out almost two and a half hours. It was on the third count, Judge Evans having instructed for Harris on three of the four counts in the indictment. Harris, whose real name is Fred Lewis Harris, is known as "Old Man Harris," through having advertised himself by this name in his oil stock promotions.

Harrodsburg.—After scouring the country for five hours a posse, composed of wood cutters in the west end of Mercer county, apprehended a man, giving the name of Louis Langdon, of Little Washington, Pa., who is accused of having threatened to kill Mrs. Wesley Davis, 70, unless she gave him money. The man is described as a giant in stature, and about 40 years old. He was roughly dressed, and told arresting officers he had come to Kentucky to get a place as wood cutter.

He is the son of former State Representative C. W. Haverly, of Keno, this county.

Paducah.—An unidentified negro burglar shot and seriously wounded John Clements, an employee of the Paducah Electric Company, in a revolver battle with police and civilians. The negro was discovered in Sloan Bros. grocery in the West End, and a battery of police surrounded the place. Clements, who accompanied the police, forced his way into the rear door and the burglar rushed past him, firing as he ran. He fired another shot after Clements had pitched forward into the snow outside the building. The ball entered Clements' mouth and came out at the back of his neck. The negro escaped.

Hopkinsville.—A contract has been let to a Hopkinsville firm for the erection of a handsome and modern graded and high school building at Trenton, in Todd county, at $93,000. The additional items, including furniture, will cost several thousand dollars more. The funds available for the new building, arising through the regular school fund channels, were not sufficient for the letting of the contract, and twelve of the leading citizens of that town and surrounding section signed the contract as individuals.

CONSTANTINOPLE HELD BY ALLIES

SOLDIERS OF ENTENTE ENCOUNTER SLIGHT RESISTANCE AT TURKISH WAR OFFICE.

GEN. MILNE IS IN COMMAND

Forces of Occupation Landed Under the Protection of Guns of Powerful Ships of Fleet Anchored in the Bosphorus.

Constantinople.—Constantinople was occupied by allied forces under Gen. Sir George F. Milne of the British army. This long-looked-for military demonstration by the allies against Turkey was carried out with only one outward happening, a serious clash at the war office, where the Turks resisted the allied troops.

An exchange of shots resulted, in which several punjab of the British East Indian forces and a few of the Turks were killed.

The excitement caused by the occupation quieted down before darkness fell, brought absolute calm.

The allies have occupied the ministries of war and navy and assumed control of the posts, telegraphy and telephones, which have been temporarily suspended. Shipping also has been suspended.

The landing of the forces of occupation was carried out under the guns of the formidable allied fleet anchored in the Bosphorus. The British dreadnaught Benbow was moored at the Galata quay, her guns trained upon Stamboul. Another man-of-war faced the arsenal in the Golden Horn, while all the other warships in the Bosphorus were standing by with their decks cleared for action.

Except in the instance stated, however, there was no resistance to the allied forces as they carried out the orders for the occupation of the historic capital of the Ottoman Empire. The population, in fact, showed little alarm, nor was there any sign of panic except in one section of Stamboul as the commanders of the allied troops brought their forces ashore.

These forces included 4,000 blue-jackets and marines from the British forces of all the allies represented here. Indian detachments having Moslems on their rosters were among the troops taking part in the operation.

President of Southern Railway System Believes It Can Successfully Paddle Own Canoe.

Atlanta, Ga.—Confidence in the continued prosperity of the south and in the organization of the Southern railway system to such an extent that he is willing to make a wager of over $12,500,000 on it has been shown by President Fairfax Harrison of the Southern in deciding not to qualify for a government guarantee, covering the period of six months from March 1.

This decision was reached by President Harrison after a trip through the heart of the country served by the Southern and resulted from the evidences of business activity which he saw on every side. REFUGE SPOTS FOR ELOPERS Fleet Prison and Gretna Green Were Highly Desirable Places in the Olden Time.

Gretna Green, whose chief industry was once matrimony, is a village in Scotland less than a mile from the River Sark, which marks the English-Scottish boundary line in that vicinity, near the Solway firth. The English marriage laws sent eloping couples to Scotland just as the divorce laws of 47 of our states make Reno desirable for would-be divorcees, and therein lies Gretna Green's first claim to fame.

Fleet prison was the figurative "Gretna Green" of England until the passage of the famous Harbottle act of 1754, which made unauthorized marriages voidable. Gretna Green thereupon becoming the romance spot of the British isles. All the Scottish law required was that two persons should declare their intention to be married in the presence of witnesses, and the British law then, as now, recognizes marriages as legal so long as they conformed to the laws in the places where they were performed.

During the three decades when Gretna Green flourished, there were more than 7,000 marriages recorded there, nearly 800 of which were performed in 1855, the year before Scotland enacted a law which made a three weeks' residence a requisite to marriage. Marriage by declaration is still legal in Scotland.

FIND BRIDE'S BONES IN ROME?

Disappearance of Artist's Wife May Be Solved in a Murder Trial.

Rome.—Two developments in the tangled and mysterious case in which Ignazio Mesones, a Peruvian painter, is charged with the murder of his girl bride, came to light. The skeleton of a woman known as Maria Rotellini, who was supposed to have committed suicide here two years ago, was exhumed and positively identified as that of Senora Mesones, and Mesones admitted to the court that his wife had disappeared on December 27, 1917, instead of sailing for America, as he had insisted hitherto. He also expressed the belief that Senora Mesones and the Rotellini woman were the same person.

Mesones told the court that for the purpose of obtaining money from his wife's family he invented the story that Senora Mesones had gone to America. Investigation by authorities has shown the supposed Maria Rotellini first appeared in Rome on the day Mesones says his wife vanished.

BE THANKFUL YOU CAN SMELL

English Woman Writer Went Through Life Keenly Regretting Her Lack of That Sense.

Did it ever occur to you to be grateful for the sense of smell? Probably not, and yet those who have been deprived of it have felt their loss keenly. Harriet Martineau, the famous English writer, lacked the sense of smell and consequently the sense of taste, which depends on smell. Once and only once she tasted in all the intensity of flavor a slice of a leg of mutton. The sense came to her suddenly and she thought and hoped it had come to stay.

"I was going out to a great dinner that night," she said when telling of her one taste, "and I looked forward with great eagerness to the dainties that I knew would be set before me. How I should enjoy practicing my new-found sense of taste!"

But, alas, the sense of taste disappeared as suddenly as it had come, and never returned, and she went through life remembering that taste of roast mutton as one of her keenest joys.

Fish, Given "Drink," Comes Back to Life

London.—The whole town of Yarmouth has viewed a small fish, a bream, and marveled. It has been named Jonah No. 2. Robert Watling, Colchester, Norfolk, caught a 20-pound pike on Barton Broad. Some time later, when the pike was cleaned, a bream was found inside it. When examined, the bream's tail was seen to quiver. "Thereupon," said Watling, "I poured a drop of brandy down the fish's throat and placed it in a bath can, changing the water every 20 minutes. It soon began to revive, and in a short time was swimming around as full of life as ever."

FIFTEEN YEARS OF BLACK-DRAUGHT

Black-Draught Highly Recommended by Illinois Man for Liver and Stomach Disorders.—Used It for Fifteen Years.

Singerton, Ill.—"For fifteen years we have used Theodor's Black-Draught, and have not as yet found anything that could take its place," writes Mr. W. F. Rister, of this town. "I have used it for indigestion a number of times, and it gives relief," continues Mr. Rister.

"For sour stomach, a heavy, bloated feeling, it is splendid. And when the liver gets torpid, so that when you stoop and raise up suddenly you feel dizzy, a few doses will set you straight."

"We keep it and use for constipation and the above troubles, and find it most satisfactory. I can recommend it to others and gladly do so. For the number of years I have used Black-Draught now, I ought to know."

In its 70 years of usefulness, Theodor's Black-Draught has relieved thousands and thousands of persons suffering from the results of a disordered liver. And, like Mr. Rister, many people feel that, after using Black-Draught nothing can take its place.

The KITCHEN CABINET

Why don't you live a cheerful life And make the best of things? For discontent means constant strife And other ills it brings. It is hard tramping on life's pike, I know that this is true; But if you can't do what you like, Try liking what you do. —Luke M. Luke.

SOMETHING ABOUT POTATOES.

One medium-sized potato, an ordinary serving of a common cooked cereal and a medium-sized slice of bread contain about the same amount of energy-yielding food, principally in the form of starches.

We need starch to give us energy to live and work. As a source of iron, potatoes are equal to whole cereals and eggs when properly cooked. The potato contains but a small amount of one type of building material which is very important: that is nitrogen; but the amount seems to equal the average amount found in cereals, on the basis of the usual servings.

Although potatoes and cereals have a good supply of lime and phosphorus, they should not be depended upon as a source of these minerals. As lime and phosphorus are needed for building bones and teeth as well as regulating the body processes, they should be supplied from milk, eggs, legumes.

One great advantage that potatoes have over cereals is that they help to keep the fluids of the body neutral or slightly alkaline, because of the potassium they contain. Those foods which have an alkaline reaction in the tissues seem to furnish better health to the average individual.

The waste in paring a potato after cooking, as compared to that of the method of peeling before cooking, is just half, as the skin holds back the mineral salts; the protein and starch and none of this food substance comes off with the skin after cooking.

The temperature of water in which potatoes are put on to cook also influences loss of nutriment. Experiments have proved that the loss of mineral matter is little; the loss of protein is over twice as great when potatoes are put on to cook in cold water as in boiling water.

From all points of view the best methods of preparing potatoes are by baking and steaming.

GOOD THINGS FOR OCCASIONS.

For those who have a sweet tooth, the following will be enjoyed:

Date Jam.—Remove the stones from two pounds of dates after washing them in warm water. Put them in a saucepan with a pound of sugar, one pint of water, the juice and rind of a lemon and a dash of nutmeg. Simmer until thick, stirring frequently. Pour into glasses and seal.

Baked Ham in Milk.—Parboil a piece of smoked ham cut from the center of the ham, two inches thick, in milk to cover, twenty minutes. Put into a saucepan and cover with a paste made of one-half cupful of brown sugar and two teaspoonfuls of mustard, mixing with some of the milk, and spread over the ham. Bake, surrounded with the milk, until well browned, then turn and cover the other side of the ham with the sugar and mustard. Bake until well browned.

Chicken Cooked in Milk.—Cut up a chicken as for fricassee, cover with sweet milk, after rolling in well-seasoned flour, and bake in a moderate oven until the chicken is tender. The gravy will be thickened with the flour and ready to serve with the chicken.

Canapes, Spanish Style.—Cut the desired rounds, squares or diamonds for the canapes. Fry them in a little corn oil until well browned. Pound to a smooth paste one-fourth cupful each of butter, cooked chicken, two tablespoonfuls of ham and grated cheese, a dash of paprika and a little salt. Spread this well-blended paste over the prepared bread. Garnish each with figures cut from slices of pickle or cooked beets.

Salad Dressing.—Beat three eggs until stiff, add the juice of one lemon and beat until the eggs have thickened again; season with one-quarter of a teaspoonful of pepper and a trace of cayenne. Cook in a double boiler in a little cream, stirring constantly. Remove from the fire and add two tablespoonfuls of butter. When serving this dressing, add an equal quantity of whipped cream and such seasonings as the salad combination requires.

Breakfast Toast.—Prepare slices bread by dipping it in cold water and putting into a covered pan in a hot oven. Serve well buttered with hot, seasoned tomatoes poured over the bread. The tomatoes should be seasoned to taste with salt, pepper, butter and, if liked, a little sugar.

LESS MEAT IF BACK AND KIDNEYS HURT

Take a Glass of Salts to Flush Kidneys if Bladder Bothers You.

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.—Adv.

LADY LARKSPUR

By MEREDITH NICHOLSON

Copyright by Charles Scribner's Sons

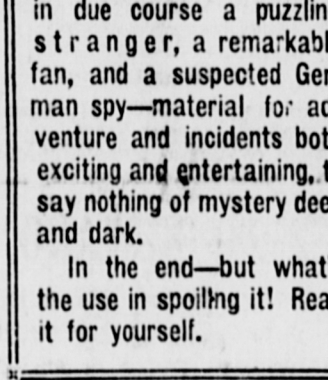

LADY LARKSPUR

"Lady Larkspur" is a delightful little whimsy of a story by Meredith Nicholson, author of "The House of a Thousand Candles" and other charming romances that nearly everybody has read. It's short and sweet and full of the fanciful charm which has made Nicholson deservedly popular.

Bob Singleton is the hero. He's an aviator inviolated home. His Uncle Bashford has married an English-woman in Japan in his old age, died and left a widow whom Bob has never seen. Said widow, present whereabouts unknown, is mystery No. 1. Mystery No. 2 is Violet Dewing, an entirely charming English actress, also missing from public view. Bob's friend Searles has written a play, "Lady Larkspur," especially for her and naturally is combing the universe to find her. Bob goes to the Bashford "farm" at Barton in New England to recuperate. The household is made up of broken-down hotel employees befriended by the uncle—comedy material.

A young and attractive woman arrives and says she's the widow. Bob is quickly captivated. Appears in due course a puzzling stranger, a remarkable fan, and a suspected German spy—material for adventure and incidents both exciting and entertaining, to say nothing of mystery deep and dark.

In the end—but what's the use in spoiling it! Read it for yourself.

CHAPTER I.

The "Troops"

"It was hard luck," said Searles, "that I should spend a year writing a play for a woman only to find that she had vanished—jumped off the earth into nowhere. This was my highest flight, Singleton, the best writing I ever did, and after the vast pains I took with the thing, the only woman I ever saw who could possibly act it is unavailable; worse than that, absolutely undiscoverable! Nobody knows I have this script; I've kept quiet about it simply because I'm not going to be forced into accepting a star I don't want. I have a feeling about this play that I never had about my other things. The public has been so kind to my small offerings that I'm trying to lead 'em on to the best I can do; something a little finer and more imaginative, with a touch of poetry, if you please. And now—"

He glared at me as though I were responsible for his troubles. As he knew I had been flying in the French aviation corps for two years and had just been invalided home, I didn't think it necessary to establish an alibi. Fate had been kind to Dick Searles. In college he had written a play or two that demonstrated his talent, and after a rigid apprenticeship as scene-shifter and assistant producer he had made a killing with "Let George Do It," a farce that earned enough to put him at ease and make possible an upward step into straight comedy. Even as we talked a capricious woman was laughing at his skill. "Who Killed Cook Robin?" just around the corner from his lodgings. So his story was not the invention of a rejected playwright to cover the non-appearance of a play which nobody would produce.

"Isn't it always a mistake to write a play for a particular star?" I suggested. "Seems to me I've read somewhere that that is among the besetting sins of playwrights."

"Old stuff, my boy; but this isn't one of those cases. The person I had in mind for this play wasn't a star, but a beginner, quite unknown. It was when I was in London putting on 'Fairy Gold' that I saw her; she had a small part in a pantomime, and pantomime is the severest test of an actor's powers, you know. A little later she appeared in 'Honorable Women,' a capital play that died early, but there again I felt her peculiar charm—it was just that. She was exquisite! No one ever captured my imagination as she did. I watched her night after night. I was afraid that when I heard her voice it would break the spell, and I actually shook a man with an ague when she tripped out on the stage as the ingenue in 'Honorable Women.' And her laughter! You know how hollow the usual stage mirth is, but that girl's laugh had the joy of the lark ascending!"

"By Jove!" I ejaculated, "there's more here than appears. You're in love with the girl!"

"Rubbish," he cried impatiently. "You'll think I'm talking rot, but this girl was the visualization of a character I had dreamed of and groped after for years. That's all; but it's a whole lot, I can tell you!"

"Let us be practical for a moment, Searles," I urged. "Emperors, presidents, and popular murderers are not more conspicuous than the people of the stage. No girl talented enough to get two engagements, even for small parts, in a first-class London theater could vanish. With your acquaintance in the profession you'd be able to trace her anywhere on earth. By the way, what did the paragon call herself?"

"Violet Dewing was her stage name and the only name the managers knew her by. I assumed that, of course, all I had to do was to finish my play and then have Dalton, who represents me over there, make an appointment to read it to her; but Dalton worked for three months trying to find her, without success. I wasn't the only person who was interested in her. Dalton said that half a dozen managers had their eye on her, but after 'Honorable Women' closed she stepped into the void. I knew what you're thinking—that the other members of the two companies she appeared with must have had some inkling of her identity, but I tell you Dalton and I exhausted the possibilities. It was by accident that she got her chance in the pantomime—some one wouldn't do at the last minute, and they gave Miss Dewing a trial. She was well liked by her associates in spite of the fact that she was a bit offish and vanished from their world the minute the curtain fell."

"A clever governess out of a job, satisfying a craving for excitement and playing the mysterious role as a part of the adventure. Am I to assume that you've burned your play and that the incident is closed?"

"Oh, I didn't burn it; I have a copy locked in a safety vault, and Dalton left one heavily sealed at a small exclusive London hotel where, he found after much difficulty, the girl had lodged during her two engagements."

"You're morbid," I said. "Show me her photograph."

He laughed ironically. "Never a chance, Singleton! You haven't yet got the idea that this young woman is out of the ordinary. She refused to be photographed—wrote it into her two contracts that this was not to be asked. I never saw her off the stage, and I can't give you a description of her that would be of the slightest assistance to the keenest detective alive. In that pantomime she was a frollic, the clown's daughter, and, although nobody saw it, she was the whole piece, the elusive sprite that could evoke laughter and tears by a gesture, a lifting of the brows, a grimace. By utterly different methods in 'Honorable Women' she proved her wide range of appeal. Hers was the one true characterization in the piece. When Terry was in her prime you remember how we used to say that only one bird sang like that, and from paradise it flew? Well, this bird sings on the same branch! Her voice was her charm made audible."

"Rave some more!" I pleaded. "You never talked better in your life."

"Don't be an ass," he said sourly. "Let's forget her and take a squint at your affairs. Just what do you mean to do with yourself?"

"My shoulder still creaks a little, and the doctors advise me to sit around for a while. They offered me some jobs in Washington, but desk work and inspection duty are too tame after a couple of years spent in star climbing. I'm going up to Barton-on-the-Sound and I'll camp in the garage on my uncle's place."

"Your uncle played you a nasty trick," interrupted Searles; "getting married and then adding to the crime by dying. You couldn't beat that for general spitefulness."

"Do you remember the immortal lines: 'Oh, skip your dear uncle! The Bellman exclaimed As he angrily tinkled his bell?'"

"Oh, I'm not knocking the dead!" he protested. "Mr. Bashford always laugh had the joy of the lark ascending!"

"By Jove!" I ejaculated, "there's more here than appears. You're in love with the girl!"

It was by accident that she got her chance in the pantomime—some one wouldn't do at the last minute, and they gave Miss

Dewing a trial. She was well liked by her associates in spite of the fact that she was a bit offish and vanished from their world the minute the curtain fell."

"A clever governess out of a job, satisfying a craving for excitement and playing the mysterious role as a part of the adventure. Am I to assume that you've burned your play and that the incident is closed?"

"Oh, I didn't burn it; I have a copy locked in a safety vault, and Dalton left one heavily sealed at a small exclusive London hotel where, he found after much difficulty, the girl had lodged during her two engagements."

"You're morbid," I said. "Show me her photograph."

He laughed ironically. "Never a chance, Singleton! You haven't yet got the idea that this young woman is out of the ordinary. She refused to be photographed—wrote it into her two contracts that this was not to be asked. I never saw her off the stage, and I can't give you a description of her that would be of the slightest assistance to the keenest detective alive. In that pantomime she was a frollic, the clown's daughter, and, although nobody saw it, she was the whole piece, the elusive sprite that could evoke laughter and tears by a gesture, a lifting of the brows, a grimace. By utterly different methods in 'Honorable Women' she proved her wide range of appeal. Hers was the one true characterization in the piece. When Terry was in her prime you remember how we used to say that only one bird sang like that, and from paradise it flew? Well, this bird sings on the same branch! Her voice was her charm made audible."

"Rave some more!" I pleaded. "You never talked better in your life."

"Don't be an ass," he said sourly. "Let's forget her and take a squint at your affairs. Just what do you mean to do with yourself?"

"My shoulder still creaks a little, and the doctors advise me to sit around for a while. They offered me some jobs in Washington, but desk work and inspection duty are too tame after a couple of years spent in star climbing. I'm going up to Barton-on-the-Sound and I'll camp in the garage on my uncle's place."

"Your uncle played you a nasty trick," interrupted Searles; "getting married and then adding to the crime by dying. You couldn't beat that for general spitefulness."

"Do you remember the immortal lines: 'Oh, skip your dear uncle! The Bellman exclaimed As he angrily tinkled his bell?'"

"Oh, I'm not knocking the dead!" he protested. "Mr. Bashford always struck me as a pretty decent, square sort of chap, and not at all the familiar grouchy uncle of fiction and the drama. I made notes on him from time to time with a view to building a play around him—the perfect uncle, unobtrusive, never blustering at his nephew; translating the avuncular relationship into something remote and chaste like a distant view of Mount Washington in winter. It was just like him to retire from business on his sixtieth birthday and depart for the Orient, there to commit the shameless indiscretion of matrimony."

"Like him! It was the greatest shock of my life. To the best of my knowledge he never knew any women except the widow of his partner in the importing house. She was about eighty and perfectly safe. He spent twenty years in the Tyingham, the dullest and most respectable hotel in the world, and his chief recreation was a leisurely walk in the park before going to bed. You could set your clock by him. Pretty thin picking for a dramatist, I should think. He used to take me to the theater regularly every other Thursday—it was a date—and his favorite entertainment was vaudeville with black-face embellishment preferred. But in his shy fashion he was kind and generous and mighty good to me."

"If you hadn't gone to war, but had kept right at his elbow, the marriage might have been averted," suggested Searles. "He did leave you something, didn't he?"

"Fifty thousand cash and the right to use the garage at the Barton farm. Calling it a farm's a joke; it's rocks mostly. He bought the house to have a place to store his prints and Jap ceramics. He hated motoring except in taxis up and down town, and when I urged him to set up a machine, he told me to go ahead and buy one and build the garage. Told me I'd better fix up the studio in the garage and have it as a place to work in. His will provides that I may lodge in the garage for life."

"The estate footed a million, as I remember, so I can't praise his generosity. But the widow, your unknown auntie, the body-snatcher who annexed the old boy—what of her?"

"I've asked the trust company people whether she's in sight anywhere, and they assure me that she is not on these shores. Torrence, the third vice president—you know Torry; he was in the class ahead of us at college, the man who never smiles—Torry said she acknowledged the last remittance three months ago from Bangkok—wherever that is. I suppose the old girl's resumed her tour of the world looking for another retired merchant to add to her list."

"Very likely. To what nation, tribe, or human group does this predatory person belong?"

Your New Home

should be made artistic, sanitary and livable.

These walls should be Alabastine in the latest, up-to-the-minute nature color tints. Each room should reflect your own individuality and the treatment throughout be a complete perfect harmony in colors.

The walls of the old home, whether mansion or cottage, can be made just as attractive, just as sanitary, through the intelligent use of

Alabastine

Instead of kalsomine or wallpaper

How much better, when you have a new home, to start right than to have to correct errors afterward from former treatment with other materials, when you come to the use of Alabastine, as does nearly every one sooner or later.

Once your walls are Alabastined you can use any material over it should you desire, but having used Alabastine you will have no desire for any other treatment.

Alabastine is so easy to mix and apply—so lasting in its results—so absolutely sanitary—and so generally recognized as the proper decorative material in a class by itself that it is becoming difficult to manufacture fast enough to supply the demand.

Alabastine is a dry powder, put up in five-pound packages, white and beautiful tints, ready to mix and use by the addition of cold water, and with full directions on each package. Every package of genuine Alabastine has cross and circle printed in red.

Better write us for hand-made color designs and special suggestions. Give us your decorative problems and let us help you work them out.

Calabaz are sold only in original sealed packages, price thirty-five cents. Every druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not perfectly delighted with Calabaz.—(Adv.)

KING HAD SOME IMAGINATION

Wonderful Story of "Waterless Sea" Would Have Done Credit to Baron Munchausen.

Preston John as a title was like the Egyptian Pharaoh and belonged to whole lines of king who reigned in the East and in Ethiopia in particular. One writer of long ago sets Abyssinia as the kingdom of Preston John. Abyssinia used to be called "Middle India."

It is related that before the year 1241 a letter was addressed by Preston John to Manuel Comnenus, emperor of Constantinople, saying that in Preston John's country there is a "waterless sea," which some have ever crossed. It consists of tumbling billows of sand, never at rest, and contains fish of most excellent flavor.

Three days' journey from the coast of the sand sea is a mountain where rolls down a "waterless river," consisting of small stones, which crumble into sand when they reach the sea.

Whoever Preston John may have been, if he invented that story, he certainly possessed a vivid imagination and considerable originality.

Extreme Economist.

"Are the locomotives going to ring bells and blow whistles when their engineers' wages are raised?"
"I don't know," replied Mr. Dustin Stax, cautiously, "whether we can afford to use up all that steam and coal power."

The Satisfying Sweetness of the wheat and barley food Grape-Nuts is a matter of economy as well as delight these days. Grape-Nuts pleases without the addition of sugar, as is not the case with most cereals. Grape-Nuts is economical.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by any means, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal deafness is caused by an inflammation of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

SOMETHING FOR NOTHING?

Something for nothing? It can't be done, nor do we promise it. The man who responds to such a promise usually gets it the other way nothing for something. That is expensive also embarrassing.

We are in business to serve and must not only make expenses but an honest, fair profit in order to make a living for our employees as well as for the families. We prefer to promise less and give you more. This invites the patronage of level headed Americans who buy with their eyes open and who understand the economy of quality.

Folks have faith in the concern that asks an honest price including an honest profit for honest goods. We are prepared to prove to our out of town patrons the wisdom of this store's principle and practice.
